The Actor Works Student Graduation Season

Students of brand new drama school The Actor Works present their graduation shows at the renowned Greenwich Playhouse this summer. The season consists of three plays, showing over three weeks, by great modern writers.

Play 1:

Headrot Holiday* by Sarah Daniels, a harrowing and often hilarious insight into the lives and minds of the patients and staff at a psychiatric hospital. Funny as this play is, it brings home the distressing notion that people are not all they seem. In fact, sometimes they are an awful lot more. Tuesday 10th to Sunday 15th July.

Play 2:

Two Lips Indifferent Red* by Tamsin Oglesby. Set in the world of high fashion, beauty and plastic surgery, this play questions the necessity for surgical enhancement and the stigma still attached to such procedure. An eminent surgeon offers his ageing wife a nip/tuck for her birthday. Their daughter is not happy. But why? This play contains both male and female nudity. Tuesday 17th to Sunday 22nd July.

Play 3:

Dinner* by Moira Buffini. This Olivier nominated play follows all three courses of a lavish soiree, organised by Paige, a jaded socialite, to commemorate the launch of her husband's new book. As the guests arrive, it become gradually clearer that Paige may have other, much more sinister, plans for the evening. Tuesday 24th to Sunday 29th July.

The Actor Works, based in Wapping, was set up in January 2007 by Daniel Brennan as a rescue package for those students left without a school after the sudden closure of The Academy Drama School. Daniel is also Artistic Director of theatre company showdon'ttell and has brought to bear the practices he uses with the company (influenced by the late practitioner, Viola Spolin) to The Actor Works.
