

PRESS RELEASE

Sell a Door Theatre Company

Are proud to present...

Twelfth Night

by William Shakespeare

Produced by David Hutchinson

Directed by Bryn Holding

Designed by David Woodhead and Nadia Tahari

"Love sought is good, but given unsought is better"

A special treat is coming to the Greenwich Playhouse this St Valentine's season...

Award winning Sell a Door Theatre Company unleash William Shakespeare's tale of Love, mischief, desertion and entanglement in this dynamic new production by director Bryn Holding.

Shipwrecked on a stormy night in Illyria, the beautiful young Viola disguises herself as a man and manages to find employment as a page in the court of the lovesick Duke Orsino. But, just as Viola finds herself falling for the Duke, Olivia – whom Orsino has been constantly pursuing, finds herself falling for Viola. Meanwhile the chaos is only deepened when servant Maria and the drunken Sir Toby Belch plot against Olivia's servant, Malvolio.

Twelve actors bring this outrageous comedy to life as Shakespeare's most indelible comedic characters and side splitting situations rocket onto stage in this tale of wild infatuation and mistaken identities.

More information at www.selladoor.com

Listings Information

16th February – 14th March 2010

Press Night: Thursday 18th February 2010 @ 7.30pm

Tuesday – Saturday @ 7.30pm; Sundays @ 4pm

(Running time 2hr 15min (with interval))

Tickets: £12, £10 (concs.)

Box office 020 8858 9256

boxoffice@galleontheatre.co.uk

GREENWICH PLAYHOUSE, Greenwich Station Forecourt,

189 Greenwich High Road, London SE10 8JA

www.galleontheatre.co.uk

For further Information, Interviews or Images:
Please contact David Hutchinson, producer, on T: 07754 71 36 82
Email: d.hutchinson@live.co.uk